Llega a México nuevo embajador de EEUU

Por JOHN RICE

MEXICO (AP): El nuevo embajador de Estados Unidos en México, amigo del presidente George W. Bush, arribó el jueves a la capital mexicana en momentos en que las relaciones entre los dos países parecen haberse enfriado.

Tony Garza presentará sus credenciales al presidente Vicente Fox el viernes. Juramentó como embajador el lunes en la Casa Blanca.

En Washington, varios funcionarios del Departamento de Estado pusieron en entredicho algunas declaraciones que Garza hizo a diarios mexicanos.

En entrevistas publicadas el fin de semana en la prensa capitalina, Garza dijo que el gobierno de Bush propondrá legalizar la situación de muchos residentes ilegales que llevan tiempo en el país, aunque sin concederles la ciudadanía, además de ampliar el programa de trabajadores temporales.

Un funcionario del Departamento de Estado dijo el jueves que no estaba al tanto de ese plan, aunque agregó que el embajador quizá sepa algo que desconoce el Departamento.

El funcionario, que habló a condición de guardar el anonimato, dialogó con los periodistas sobre la próxima visita del secretario de Estado Colin Powell a México.

El funcionario dijo que no tiene sentido hacer propuestas en México sobre la migración que quizá no tengan posibilidades de ser aprobadas por el Congreso.

Las presuntas declaraciones de Garza fueron más detalladas y definitivas que las anteriores propuestas del gobierno.

Antes de que los ataques terroristas del 11 de septiembre pusieran iniciativas de inmigración en un plano secundario, la Casa Blanca había dicho que consideraba un plan para otorgar estatus de trabajador invitado y eventualmente residencia legal a parte de unos 3 millones de inmigrantes ilegales mexicanos afincados en Estados Unidos, al mismo tiempo que se oponía a una amnistía general.

New SBA initiative could aid local Latino businesses

By Alan Abrams
La Prensa Senior Correspondent

The Toledo Initiative announced by Hector V. Barreto, administrator of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) and Toledo mayor Jack Ford last week could benefit Latino entrepreneurs and other minority businesses.

The four-year program would provide grants of up to $50,000 that would, in turn, generate SBA-backed loans of up to $750,000 according to published reports.

Although the Initiative clearly has the bipartisan support of Democrat Ford and Republican-appointed Barreto, it follows closely other Bush administration efforts to bring Latinos

Centro Mexicano and the Mexican Consulate host reception

Last Wednesday, the Consulate of México and the Centro Mexicano de Michigan hosted a "Revolution of México Celebration" reception at the Detroit Chamber of Commerce in downtown Detroit.

A variety of black and white photographs were on display depicting the Mexican Revolution and the ouster of Porfirio Díaz, 1910-1920, including the one at the left illustrating anonymous women in support of the revolution. Movies of this historic epoch were also presented.

Centro Mexicano de Michigan was created in 1996 with the support of the Mexican Consulate in Detroit to promote Mexican culture and the advancement of Mexican and Mexican-American communities in Michigan and Ohio. Membership is available to all interested individuals and organizations supporting such goals.

The Centro Mexicano de Michigan is located at 645 Griswold, suite 1700, in Detroit.

Study: Latinos care as much about school achievement as white, Asian students

By DENNIS CONRAD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP): Black and Latino students surveyed in diverse, upper-income communities have as much desire to succeed in school as their white and Asian peers, says a study that challenges the idea that some minority groups are less focused on school.

Researchers for the Minority Student Achievement Network study said the findings released Tuesday, based on a survey of 40,000 middle, junior and high school students in 15 school districts across the country, show that black and Latino students are actually more likely than white students to report that their friends think it is very important to study hard and get good grades.

But nearly half of the black and Latino students surveyed said they understood their teachers' lessons about half the time or less, compared with 27 percent of white students and 32 percent of Asian students.

"As we present these data to teachers, we find that it sort of gets their attention," said Ronald Ferguson, senior research associate at Harvard's Wiener Center for Social Policy. "And I think we're better able to engage teachers and communities to say we need to do something about it."

Ferguson, who helped analyze the responses for the network, said some teachers were surprised and even questioned the accuracy of the data when told that for students within the same course level, there was virtually no difference in the amount of time that blacks, Latinos, and whites devoted to their homework. Only Asians spent significantly more time on homework.

"How well students understand what they're being taught or what they're asked to read for school depends a great deal on how they are being taught and what kinds of supports are in place to encourage learning," said Allan Alson, superintendent of Evanston Township High School District 202 in Illinois and founder of MSAN.

The survey—the first major study by the suburban school network—was conducted in the fall and winter of the 2000-01 school year. It also covered issues such as teacher-student relationships, students' understanding of classroom material, homework and peer pressure.

The network's districts, located in such communities as Evanston, Madison, Wis., and Cambridge, Mass., have reputations as high-achieving, high-support districts, but still report a common problem of having generally lower achievement results among black and Latino students. They formed their network four years ago to work to ensure high academic achievement for black and Latino students.

The study found that black and Latino students often have fewer resources at home to help them succeed in school.

For instance, 57 percent of white students and 42 percent of Asian students said they have more than one computer at home, compared with 20 percent and 27 percent, for Latino and black students respectively.

The study also found that, on average, black and Latino students in the districts were more likely to live with one or neither parent, and their parents were less likely to have college degrees than the parents of white students.

Pedro Noguera, a professor of social policy at the Harvard Graduate School of Education, said the study should help provide a better understanding of what the problems are in urban education.

"It's not in aspirations and attitudes," he said. "It's more resources, particularly parental resources."

The districts surveyed included ones in Amherst and Cambridge, Mass.; Ann Arbor, Mich.; Arlington, Va.; Berkeley, Calif.; Chapel Hill, N.C.; Shaker Heights and University Heights, Ohio; Montclair, N.J.; White Plains, N.Y.; Madison, Wis., and two each in Oak Park and Evanston, Ill.

Garza sworn in as U.S. ambassador to México

SAN ANTONIO (AP), Nov. 19: In order to expedite Tony Garza's arrival in México, he was sworn in as U.S. ambassador to that country in a private White House ceremony with President Bush.

Monday's rushed swearing-in came in advance of a binational commission meeting in México City later this month. A public ceremony at the State Department will occur later, officials said.

Garza, 43, is expected to join Secretary of State Colin Powell and other Bush administration officials Nov. 25-26 in México to take part in high-level discussions on immigration, trade and other issues.

Powell will lead a U.S. delegation and meet with Foreign Relations Secretary Jorge Castañeda and other Mexican Cabinet members.

"The president has a strong relationship with México and with President Fox. And Ambassador Garza will play an important role in that relationship," White House spokesman Scott McClellan told the San Antonio Express-News for its Tuesday editions.

The ceremony was conducted in the Oval Office by White House counsel Alberto Gonzales.

The president, first lady Laura Bush, senior presidential adviser Karl Rove, Federal Emergency Management Agency Director Joe Allbaugh and other Texans serving in the administration attended the ceremony, McClellan said.

Garza, who was in his first six-year term as Texas railroad commissioner, was nominated by Bush earlier this year and confirmed by the Senate last week.

Garza formally resigned from the Railroad Commission on Monday, less than two hours after Gov. Rick Perry suggested a successor to the panel would not be a Garza clone.

Perry, who will select Garza's replacement, was asked by reporters if he had a successor in mind, and he replied: "I would suggest to you that there is a template of an individual who has a very deep knowledge of the oil and gas industry, someone who can come to that job with a not only respect of what this industry needs but also a respect from the industry because of his or her deep knowledge in the oil and gas industry."

Garza frequently has taken an anti-industry, pro-environment stance and has clashed with his colleagues on the commission, Chairman Michael Williams and Charles Matthews, both of whom are more closely tied to the energy sector.

A look at Texans who paid for Spanish political ads

By The Associated Press

A look at some top Texas spenders on Spanish-language television advertising, according to a report by Johns Hopkins University's Hispanic Voter Project:

— Democrat Tony Sanchez spent more than $1.8 million for nearly 5,000 spots for his unsuccessful gubernatorial campaign.

— Republican Gov. Rick Perry spent at least $630,000 for more than 900 spots.

— Republican David Dewhurst, elected to lieutenant governor, spent more than $300,000.

— The Texas Democratic Party spent more than $185,000 on behalf of losing U.S. Senate candidate Ron Kirk, a former Dallas mayor.

establecer criterios para legalizar la situación de esas personas que han sido parte de nuestra comunidad" desde hace tiempo, dijo Garza al diario Reforma.

La publicación agregó que el nuevo embajador estimó que entre el 12% y el 15% de la población mexicana indocumentada de Estados Unidos lleva en el país más de 10 años.

«Creo que deberíamos reconocerlos, darles un tipo de estatus», agregó el embajador.

Garza, cuyos abuelos paternos y maternos eran mexicanos, creció cerca de la frontera y habla con fluidez el español.

El embajador dijo a los periodistas en México que tiene una relación especial con el país, principalmente por haber nacido y crecido tan cerca de la frontera.

No obstante, el embajador dijo que no se iba a dejar cegar por esos vínculos fronterizos y no olvidaría los problemas que abarcan a todo el país.

Garza participará la próxima semana en reuniones de alto nivel de funcionarios estadounidenses y mexicanos, entre ellos el secretario mexicano de Relaciones Exteriores Jorge Castañeda y Powell, para analizar el comercio, la migración y otros temas.

El nuevo embajador dijo que Bush le dejó claro que no hay relación más importante para Estados Unidos que aquella que tiene con México.

Bush llegó a la presidencia en enero del 2001, poco después que Fox lo hiciera en México. Los dos parecían tener una amistad inusualmente próxima. Bush apoyó los planes de legalización de parte de la fuerza de trabajo mexicana en su país, algo crucial para México.

Empero, tras los ataques terroristas y la posibilidad de una guerra contra Irak, afectaron esa relación.

DOJ trying to deport drug informer

PHOENIX (AP): A woman who helped federal agents convict and identify major drug dealers said she fears she will be killed if she is deported to Colombia by the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS).

Maria Elena Rosciano, a legal immigrant since 1984, was arrested five years ago in an FBI sting that netted more than $3 million worth of heroin from her Mesa home. Federal prosecutors called it the largest heroin bust in Arizona history.

Rosciano cooperated with investigators by helping them convict two narcotics traffickers and identify a major Colombian drug lord, San Francisco attorney Robert Jobs said.

But after she served her prison time, the government reneged on assurances she could remain in America with her two daughters, Jobs said.

"This is a moral outrage, and, from a policy standpoint, it's idiocy," Jobs said. "No one is going to want to cooperate with the FBI if doing so puts her life in danger, and the U.S. government is not only unwilling to protect her but is actively trying to put her in harm's way."

The case hinges on what obligation the government has to a criminal who was pressured to become an informer and imperiled by her cooperation.

Rosciano faced 40 years in prison and a $2 million fine when she negotiated a plea agreement to serve only 33 months behind bars.

However, in a recent order, U.S. District Judge Frederick Martone noted that prosecutors declined Rosciano's request for a visa but told her they doubted she would be deported if the trial judge recommended otherwise.

INS records describe Rosciano as the ringleader of a narcotics syndicate with Colombian cartel links and as a twice-convicted felon who represents a danger to the United States.

But an immigration judge concluded that she played a minor role in the conspiracy and became involved only after cajoling by FBI informers.

Rosciano, 46, has been held at the INS detention center in Florence since 1999.

"Sometimes, I feel like I can't take it anymore. ... Here is horrible. Colombia is horrible," she told The Arizona Republic during a phone interview this week.

Court records show the trial judge did recommend against deportation. Yet, after Rosciano completed her prison term in early 2000, INS officials arrested her and started deportation proceedings.

INS spokesman Russell Ahr referred calls to a Justice Department (DOJ) representative, who was unavailable.

An immigration court judge concluded that, although Rosciano faces mortal danger in Colombia, federal law allows her to be deported automatically as a dangerous alien convicted of serious crimes.

Jobs asked the U.S. District Court in Phoenix to block that move, saying the government that induced her to be an informer would be responsible for her death.

In September, Martone issued an order preventing deportation unless the INS can show that Rosciano is not likely to be killed in Colombia. The U.S. Attorney's Office appealed that ruling Nov. 10.

New SBA initiative could aid local Latino businesses firmly into the Republican camp.

The SBA is the nation's largest single financial backer of small business. It holds a portfolio in excess of $45 billion in direct and guaranteed business loans as well as disaster loans.

Barreto, who is a native of Kansas City, Missouri, was appointed by President George W. Bush to head the agency in 2001. As a youth, Barreto helped his father manage a family restaurant, an export/import business, and a construction company.

After receiving his B.S.B.A. degree in Management from Rockhurst University in his hometown, Barreto worked as South Texas Area Manager for the Miller Brewing Co.

He moved to California in 1986 and founded Barreto Insurance and Financial Services.

He is past board chairman of the Latin Business Association in Los Angeles. Prior to his appointment as SBA administrator, Barreto served as vice chairman of the board of the U.S. Hispanic Chamber of Commerce.

Barreto was recognized by Hispanic Business magazine as one of America's 100 Most Influential Hispanics.

Rodríguez was impressed. Toledo businessman Simon Rodríguez, who was recently appointed by Gov. Bob Taft to serve another term on the Ohio Commission on Hispanic/Latino Affairs, attended the joint presentation Nov. 21 at the Toledo Museum of Art.

While he stressed that the program does not specifically target Hispanics, many local Latinos fall into the category of small business owners who would qualify for the package of city grants and SBA loans.

Rodríguez, who until recently operated Seagate Graphics, told La Prensa the package could help recently started businesses such as SGI Graphics, owned by his son Adrian. The fledgling company creates screen-printed items such as T-shirts, baseball caps, and jackets as well as signage for specialty business incentives.

"I've been encouraging Adrian to get all of his documentation in order and get certified by the city, state and on the federal level," said the senior Rodríguez.

He plans to bring the initiative to the attention of the Northwest Ohio Chamber of Commerce at their next meeting. Rodríguez, who is president of the organization, said he would examine how the SBA program can benefit their members.

Rodríguez concluded, "Latinos need to help each other out. One of the most productive ways in which Latino small business owners can work together is by making a concerted effort to learn what the SBA Toledo Initiative requires and to help other small business owners comply with those requirements."

EDITOR'S NOTE: According to Mayor Ford, under this initiative, "Toledo City Council will be asked to appropriate $500,000 a year for the next four years to create a $2 million City match for this SBA program. This City investment will leverage $10 million of SBA funding as well as $2 million in private dollars.

"The SBA/Toledo Small Business Community Initiative will provide capital access to technology-related companies, minority businesses, and business start-ups. It will ultimately result in $14 million of investment in the City of Toledo and the creation of hundreds of jobs.

"I am pleased that area banks have agreed to offer prime-rate loans for this new initiative, which is a below-market interest rate for most small businesses."

Festival of Lights Commences

Last Friday, a kickoff celebration was held at Cousino's Navy Bistro for the annual Food Town International Festival of Lights, which runs through December 30 at International Park.

Over 250,000 twinkling lights are on display.

According to International Park board member Kelly Rivera, "There are also 6 new displays. Over 12,000 visitors are expected to view this spectacular showing."

SAO hosts pot luck to aid needy families

According to Bob Salazar, President of the Spanish American Organization (SAO) in Toledo, "There will be a pot-luck dinner this December 12th starting at 6:00 p.m.—the day that celebrates the Virgin of Guadalupe—at the former State Home Savings bank building, 902 S. Broadway, to raise funds to help needy families.

"In all, funds will be raised to purchase baskets for 4 families selected by The Salvation Army. We encourage the public to attend and bring canned goods for this worthy project."

On December 8, at the Collingwood Arts Center (Toledo), there will be public showings of two political art demonstrations—the Drawing Resistance Road Show and the Beehive Collection.

Drawing Resistance is a group art show of thirty-one artist/activists from Canada, México, and the United States. Their content includes subjects such as anti-globalization, working class rights, destruction of the environment, corporate control, police brutality, homelessness, and the Zapatista liberation movement in Chiapas, México.

Participants include artist Carlos Cortez (Chicago) whose suburb woodcut mediums are internationally known, and artwork by Domitila Dominguez and Antonio Ramirez (México) that appeared in Subcomandante Marcos's children's book, "Questions and Swords: Folktales of the Zapatista Revolution."

Visit its web site at www.drawingresistance.org.

The Beehive Collection is touring with a giant banner and slides, telling stories about the U.S. involvement in the civil war in Colombia. Some of the artwork can be viewed at www.beehivecollection.org.

FLOC (Farm Labor Organizing Committee) encourages the community to attend.

Latino purchasing power increasing, report says

PHOENIX (AP): Latino purchasing power nationally is expected to hit $1 trillion by 2005, according to new report.

But experts say spending on Latino advertising is still a fraction of what it should be. And a number of businesses are not attuned culturally to the diverse Latino market, said Loui Olivas, an associate management professor at Arizona State University, who compiled the 2002 report on Latino marketing.

"There are still corporations in denial of the growing Latino economic clout."

The report, called Datos, which was released Thursday, reports $1 trillion estimate factors in spending by undocumented Latinos and in Puerto Rico. Excluding those, Latino buying power is estimated to hit the $1 trillion market by 2010.

Companies, meanwhile, spend 3.2 percent of the marketing dollars to reach Latinos, which make up about 12 percent of the U.S. population, according to the Association of Latino Advertising Agencies.

Castro, NAACP discuss trade links with black U.S. farmers

By ANITA SNOW
Associated Press Writer

HAVANA (AP): Cuban leader Fidel Castro "seemed very interested" in creating trade links with thousands of black American farmers under a U.S. law allowing some agricultural transactions with the island, the NAACP's leader said Wednesday.

Kweisi Mfume and other members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People delegation discussed the issue with Castro during a four-hour meeting Tuesday. The delegation includes John Boyd, president of the National Association of Black Farmers, representing more than 12,000 growers in 38 states.

America's black farmers are eyeing Cuba as a potential market under a U.S. law allowing direct commercial sales of agricultural products to the island on a cash basis, Mfume said.

"President Castro seemed very interested and had around him all the people in the government who could make that happen," Kweisi Mfume said.

The 2000 law chips away at the trade embargo imposed by the United States in the early 1960s shortly after Castro came to power. So far, Cuba has purchased hundreds of millions of dollars worth of American food.

Castro scheduled a meeting between the NAACP delegation and Pedro Alvarez, president of Cuba's food import company, for later this week, Mfume said.

Another meeting with Castro is possible before the group returns to the United States on Friday, Mfume said.

The NAACP, the oldest and largest civil rights organization in the United States, also is exploring the possibility of establishing a branch in Cuba, Mfume said. The NAACP, with about 500,000 members, currently has overseas branches in Japan, Germany and South Korea.

"We hope to build a bridge between the NAACP and the people of Cuba, many of whom are descendants of Africa," said Mfume, the organization's president and chief operating officer.

The former U.S. congressman first traveled to Cuba a decade ago as part of a delegation.

During the current visit, the NAACP delegation also met with government opponents, American diplomats in Havana and representatives of the National Assembly, Cuba's unicameral parliament.

Lucha contra terrorismo no violará Derechos Humanos

MEXICO (AP): El gobierno mexicano anunció este jueves que es total su compromiso internacional de hacer respetar los derechos humanos, dentro de la estrategia mundial de lucha contra el terrorismo.

Un comunicado de la cancillería mexicana destacó la resolución aprobada este jueves por la Asamblea General de las Naciones Unidas de proteger los Derechos Humanos y las libertades fundamentales en la lucha Contra el Terrorismo.

El gobierno señaló que la resolución fue presentada por México para reafirmar la obligación de los estados en garantizar que las medidas de combate al terrorismo deben estar apegadas «al derecho internacional relativo a los derechos humanos, refugio y humanitario».

La Cancillería se pronunció además a favor del apoyo brindado a esta propuesta por Amnistía Internacional, Human Rights Watch y otras organizaciones civiles durante el proceso de negociación en el seno de la ONU, para adoptar esta posición.

«La resolución es de la

más esperadas por gobiernos y organizaciones del mundo, pues reafirma que no hay dicotomía en la aspiración de seguridad de los estados y la protección de los derechos humanos», dijo a la AP, Carlos Gómez, presidente de Amnistía Internacional de México.

Gómez indicó que los países que luchan contra el terrorismo deben entender a la luz de la decisión de la ONU, que entre más se respeten los derechos humanos, menos vulnerables se hacen las sociedades ante el terrorismo

Weekly Horoscope

BY SEÑORITA ANA

ARIES: (March 21-April 20)

You will see financial dealings improving this week. And it may be best to stick to time-tested realities. Steer clear of all who cannot be trusted, or seem to be working towards a goal purely for themselves. You enjoy change, variety and adventure.

TAURUS: (April 21 - May 21)

Think before you speak and make sure you have all your facts straight. If you are involved in a love affair, it can be especially intense right now; and may be an excellent time for a proposal. If uncommitted, it's time to discuss the future with a potential mate.

GEMINI: (May 22 - June 21)

This week may not be the best time to settle old grievances or new arguments, or try to make much of an impression with anyone. It may be best to adopt a low profile. Avoid hassling with a co-worker, for it's a no-win situation. There is high potential for monetary gains.

CANCER: (June 22 - July 23)

Now begins a fortunate period for your family and home interests. It's time to make a list of changes you've been contemplating, perhaps a sale of real estate. Feelings are intense in the romance department, so sidestep a showdown that could be memorable.

LEO: (July 24 - August 23)

Don't bottle up your feelings; express your anger in a positive way. Remember to speak clearly to avoid any misunderstanding. During this year, relatives are bound to play a bigger role in your life, and pleasantly so. Avoid arguing with family members.

VIRGO: (August 24 - September 23)

Expectations are high and you are apt to run into obstacles wherever you turn. It may be best to lie low, and not make waves, waiting for a more opportune time. Money trends are promising, but not immediate. People you deal with tend to be overemotional.

LIBRA: (September 24 - October 23)

Happiness and financial success are surely on their way to you. Someone may be trying to involve you in a financial deal, which just does not feel right for you - hold your ground. There is delightful rapport with a mate, lover or close friend.

SCORPIO: (October 24 - November 22)

A new romance may be waiting in the wings for you. It might not be a new person, but somebody you already know, and hadn't realized the possibilities before. You will make great progress in self-knowledge and spiritual growth in the coming year.

SAGITTARIUS: (November 23 - December 21)

It's an excellent time for beginning a domestic project or closing a real estate deal. Most of the week will find you in an upbeat mood, possibly planning a get together with friends. Don't let minor money problems dampen your spirit - things will work out.

CAPRICORN: (December 22 - January 20)

There seems to be questions from all sides regarding your career and business interests. But after this week, these problems will clear up for many months. Meanwhile, it may be best to postpone important decisions. There may be tension on the home-front.

AQUARIUS: (January 21 - February 19)

Your physical energy is at a low point this week. In the next few weeks, you are bound to make major decisions regarding your personal life, so think about your moves and plan accordingly. It looks like time to cultivate a whole new circle of friends.

PISCES: (February 20 - March 20)

This week will basically be another struggle for survival, primarily on the job, but also in other people's conflicts. It will be tense for a while, and it would be best for you to tread very lightly on others' sensitivities. Keep business facts to yourself for now.

IF THIS WEEK IS YOUR BIRTHDAY: Look towards the goal you've established for yourself in your career. Try to sidestep any minor difficulties and see the whole picture. Pay attention to your mental and physical vitality, and stay away from situations which will end in overspending, overdoing or overindulging.

DILES QUE LO VISTE EN LA PRENSA ! ESTE PODRIA SER SU ANUNCIO EN LA PRENSA!

tic video screens, and moving, elevated stages.

Shakira is pure, raw talent—a progeny at the age of thirteen, who is 4 feet, 11 inches in stature but mammoth in creativity—who delighted her fans with combinations of Latino styles, Arabic-flavored rhythms, and, yes, even reggae—seventy per cent in Spanish, thirty per cent in English.

Shakira is poetic—prophetic and spiritual, Lebanese-style prose and poetry are viewed on the screens before, after, and during her performances—in the style of Kahlil Gibran of Lebanon [“You may forget the one with whom you have laughed, but never the one with whom you have wept.”]

Shakira is political—throughout the evening, she chastised Bush for his designs on Iraq. It is obvious, after all, that Bush is hell-bent on invading Iraq, regardless of the morality or the world opposition to this xenophobic doctrine.

She chided Bush with a full-screened, puppet parody of Bush and Saddam playing chess, only to end in a draw of death and destruction.

I was awed by Shakira back in 1996 when she released “Donde estás corazón” through the Sony Latin label. She was then known by her full name, Shakira Mebarak.

She had long, shiny, black hair then, with distinctive, indigenous features. But, despite her newly found, blond hair, she, like a fine Colombian Supremo, has only mellowed with time.

Now 24, she has made a name for herself and has developed her own, dynamic style. Let’s only hope it continues.

Kmart to launch apparel named for Mexican singer Thalia

DETROIT (AP): Kmart Corp. plans to launch a brand of clothing named for Mexican singer and soap queen Thalia in an effort to appeal to Latino customers.

The line will be aimed at female customers, from girls to women, and also will include cosmetics, jewelry and accessories, Kmart said.

Few details are available about the line, which won’t be available until the summer in limited markets, said Kmart spokeswoman Abigail Jacobs. An announcement about the brand is expected in early December.

Latino customers account for 17 percent of Kmart’s sales, Jacobs said, and this partnership is aimed at strengthening that business.

Under the agreement with

T Enterprises LLC and Kmart, Kmart will have a four-year exclusive license of the trademark Thalia, including her name, likeness and signature. Kmart and T Enterprises will work together to develop a design scheme and style guide for the products.

Thalia won’t be designing the apparel but will be involved in the process, Kmart said.

Have a Safe and Happy Thanksgiving!

Cuba wins Intercontinental Cup championship with 2-1 win over S. Korea

By LUIS R. VARELA
Associated Press Writer

HAVANA (AP): Yobal Duenas batted a home run to help Cuba beat South Korea 2-1 and regain the Intercontinental Baseball Cup gold medal.

Wednesday night's game was defined in the seventh inning when Cuba's Barbaro Canizares opened with a double against the right field fence. Duenas then managed to hit a low throw by Tae Hyon Chong and send it high into the stands above left field.

Duenas raised his arms into the air in a sign of triumph and the crowd of 30,000 at the Latinoamericano stadium erupted in applause and cries of celebration.

The South Koreans scored their run in the fourth inning with a home run hit to left field by Bum Ho Lee.

Relief pitcher Mael Rodríguez (1-0), who substituted starter Jose Ibar in the fourth inning, brought home the victory.

The Cubans won all 10 games they played in the current championship and recaptured the title they lost in 1999 against Australia.

South Korea came in second in the current championship, while Panama and the Dominican Republic, whose final scheduled game Wednesday afternoon was rained out, shared third place.

Taiwan finished fifth, followed by Japan, Venezuela, Italy, the Netherlands, Italy, Brazil, Mexico and China.

Cuba will host the World Baseball Championship in November 2003.

Hundreds bid farewell to 5-year-old cancer victim who became poster child for activists opposed to Navy exercises

By MANUEL ERNESTO RIVERA
Associated Press Writer

VIEQUES, Puerto Rico (AP): Hundreds of mourners paid their last respects on Wednesday to a 5-year-old cancer victim who became a symbol for activists' claims that U.S. Navy bombing exercises harm human health.

Under a clear sky, mourners sang traditional Puerto Rican bomba music during a funeral ceremony on Vieques island, where Milivý Adams Calderon spent the first years of her life.

"Let's sing about this girl until sunrise," the mourners sang in one verse.

The girl died of cancer November 17th at a Philadelphia hospital. Her family said she had tumors in her brain and various parts of her body.

The Navy denies that its bombing exercises on Vieques' eastern tip harm the health of the island's 9,100 residents or the environment.

Milivý, meanwhile, became a symbol for the alleged harm that activists blame on the Navy training.

Images of her—bald from cancer treatment—so often appeared on demonstrators' signs and fliers.

Milivý's parents, Jose Adams and Zulayka Calderon, maintain their daughter became ill due to contamination from the bombing exercises—accusations the Navy strongly denies.

At a memorial Mass on Wednesday, the Rev. Nelson Lopez described Milivý as "an angel and a fighter" who withstood multiple chemotherapy treatments and two bone marrow transplants.

As the hearse carrying Milivý's coffin passed, hundreds of children released white balloons and threw flowers. She was buried at a public cemetery on the outlying Puerto Rican island.

"The pain that we feel today, we have to convert into energy, persistence for the fight that lies ahead," said Ruben Berrios, president of the Puerto Rican Independence Party. "I don't have tears in my eyes today because an angel has gone to heaven. I feel pain and sorrow."

"She is the symbol of Vieques: its beauty, suffering, pain, but also all the hope that remains."

Officials ordered all flags in Vieques to be flown at half-mast in Milivý's honor for the entire week.

For six decades, the Navy has used its firing range on Vieques to prepare for conflicts.

But protests against the bombing exercises surged in the U.S. territory in 1999 when a civilian security guard was killed by off-target bombs on the firing range. Hundreds of opponents have been arrested and jailed for trespassing on Navy lands while protesting the military training.

After years of protests, President George W. Bush has pledged the Navy will halt training on Vieques by May, 2003. Activists now are pressing for the U.S. government to clean up the bombing range, saying hazardous materials remain.

De fiesta los cubanos tras ganar la Copa Intercontinental

Por ANNE MARIE GARCIA

LA HABANA (AP): Miles de cubanos celebraron con gritos, abrazos y aplausos en la madrugada de este jueves la victoria de su novena en la Copa Intercontinental de Béisbol.

Los peloteros se abrazaron en el montículo mientras enarbolaban la bandera cubana tras la victoria sobre Corea por 2-1 que los consagró monarcas de este evento de calidad mundial.

Al compás de la famosa canción Guajira Guantanamera, se realizó en el estadio Latinoamericano de La Habana la premiación en la que Cuba recibió la medalla de oro, Corea la de plata y Panamá y Dominicana la de bronce.

El héroe en la victoria fue el intermedista Yobal Duenas que decidió el partido con un jonrón de dos carreras en el sexto episodio.

«Jugar en Cuba siempre es tener mucha tensión porque el público es muy exigente. Además no teníamos opción, aquí teníamos que recuperar la Copa Intercontinental que no ganábamos desde el 1995», dijo Duenas a la AP.

«La presión era grande desde que empezó el torneo pero creció en los últimos encuentros. Nuestro equipo fue renovado este año y queríamos demostrar que estamos a la altura de los experimentados jugadores que se retiraron como Omar Linares, Orestes Kindelan, Antonio Pacheco y Germán Mesa», agregó.

Recalcó que los bateadores cubanos tuvieron dificultades para batear la bola submarina de los coreanos.

«No nos enfrentamos casi nunca a este tipo de lanzadores y los que tiran submarina nos sorprenden y nos sacan de tiempo», explicó Duenas.

Sin embargo, logró el batazo clave en el momento oportuno, «realmente salí a buscar el jonrón porque no tenía opción. Me salió bien y que puedo decir, estoy feliz».

El relevista Pedro Luis Lazo, quien cerró con broche de oro el encuentro sin permitir libertades, cree que fue su día de revancha.

«En realidad fue una revancha muy personal contra el público que considero fue injusto conmigo porque me abucheó en varias ocasiones durante la Copa», explicó Lazo.

«No es fácil cerrar un juego y mucho menos una final de Copa Intercontinental donde la tensión es grande. Hoy era mi día y el de Cuba, recuperamos el campeonato y demostramos que el equipo tiene nivel para seguir cosechando victorias», agregó.

Los coreanos fueron despedidos por los aficionados con un cerrado aplauso en reconocimiento al estelar partido que realizaron y recibieron, además, la felicitación del ministro de Deportes de Cuba, Humberto Rodríguez, quien saludó personalmente a cada uno de los integrantes de la novena coreana.

Libertadores: Cruz Azul se clasificó a la Libertadores 2003

MEXICO (AP): Con tres goles del uruguayo Sebastián Abreu, el Cruz Azul de México venció 4-0 al Nacional Táchira de Venezuela y se clasificó el jueves a la Copa Libertadores de América del 2003.

Cruz Azul se aseguró uno de los dos cupos que se disputan en un cuadrangular dos equipos mexicanos y dos venezolanos.

Cruz Azul volverá a jugar en la Libertadores, luego de que en el torneo del 2001 llegó a la final y la perdió en tiros penales ante Boca Juniors de Argentina.

Cuando solamente resta una fecha por concluir el cuadrangular, Cruz Azul lo encabeza con 11 puntos en cinco partidos. Los Pumas de México le siguen con 10 unidades, el venezolano Estudiantes de Mérida tiene siete puntos y Táchira, eliminado, no tiene unidades.

En la última fecha que se jugará el próximo jueves, Pumas jugará ante Cruz Azul y Estudiantes ante el Táchira. Pumas, con una diferencia de más 6 goles, tiene un pie en la Libertadores. Estudiantes podría alcanzar en puntos a Pumas, pero tiene una diferencia de menos 1 en goles.

Abreu logró sus tres goles con remates de cabeza a los 9, 21 y 22 minutos. Víctor Gutiérrez hizo el otro gol a los 62 con cañonazo de derecha dentro del área.

Cruz Azul dominó ampliamente el cotejo y estuvo a punto de anotar otro par de goles cuando Miguel Zepeda estrelló dos tiros en los postes a los 27 y 31 minutos.

En el segundo tiempo, Cruz Azul bajó su rendimiento y Táchira buscó arribar al área contraria, pero sus intentos se estrellaron en una ordenada defensa.

Unos 10.000 espectadores presenciaron el cotejo en el estadio Azul de esta capital.

"VERNOR FERRETERIA, Do It Best Hardware" will have a Grand Opening on December 5, 2002, from 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. "There will be all kinds of giveaways including $50 shopping sprees!" according to its owner, Randy Yono, who also built the mall-complex that contains the ferreteria.

This multipurpose store sells plumbing, automotive, and electrical products; lumber; and paint; it also offers window repair and rentals of a variety of tools.

"Do It Best Hardware" has food products savored by Latinos.
